

A unique look at wine throughout the ages.

Fratta Polesine, a little village that hosts the famous Palladian Villa Badoer, is the setting for your trip in wine history. This day excursion gives you the unique opportunity to taste wine as made in Ancient Rome paired with food prepared according to recipes of the same period. You will also take a step back to the Renaissance as you enjoy wine and food from the 16th century. Your guided tasting will conclude with a visit to a small winery to taste their organic wines. Giovanni, the wine producer, will explain the organic wine-making process and the local foods that accompany them. His family was the last owner of 16th century Villa Badoer. After the guided visit of wines throughout history, you will have the opportunity to visit the charming hamlet of Fratta Polesine and Villa Badoer.
